ROSe Compliance Training Division Announces Compliance Training Product

Review of Systems – expanded Compliance Training Division has packaged compliance training materials specifically designed for medical transcription service organizations

PORT ORANGE, FL – FEBRUARY 11, 2010 – Review of Systems-expanded \(ROSe\) announced today it has a compliance training package specifically designed for medical transcription service organizations (MTSOs) to prepare them for the upcoming effects of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) and Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health (HITECH) Act. The training package advises MTSOs of the new fines and penalties affected by ARRA and HITECH and how to mitigate potential risks. These training classes were designed by Brenda J. Hurley, CMT, AHDI-FL, a 40-year veteran of the medical transcription industry and instructor at ROSe's Compliance Training Division.

This compliance training package offered by ROSe, a medical transcription school headed by Cindy Richardson, CMT, was compiled by ROSe's Compliance Division instructor, Ms. Hurley, over the late summer and early fall of 2009. The training materials consist of four hours of presentations on CD, class materials, final exam and answer key, and certificate forms especially for use by an MTSO. This compliance training package enables MTSOs to provide instruction to their medical transcription staff regarding the new requirements for compliance and new security and privacy risks that they will encounter in their daily work activities.

Carole Gilbert, president of GMTS, an MTSO, said of the program, "Brenda and Cindy, I just finished listening to class 4, and wanted to tell you what a great series this was! I am very appreciative of all the effort that will make it much smoother for me to institute the updated security policies and procedures, knowing that everyone is on the same page with understanding the necessity."
